

INTRODUCTION

It gives me great pleasure to introduce the Proceedings of the Fourth Paediatrics and Child Health Conference, which was held in Port-Sudan during the period 15th to 18th February 1975.

It was a great honour to have in the beautiful conference hall overlooking the beautiful coast of the Red Sea such a large gathering of so many prominent paediatricians from different friendly countries in the World.

To all those who contributed in our conference and who participated in its success, the Sudan Association of Paediatricians offer its gratitude and appreciation.

We have been quite fortunate to secure most of the original papers. Some authors have promised to send their papers in due course but they have not yet been received.

The Sudanese Journal of Paediatrics can accept original contributions if they conform to its published conditions.

We do hope that the present proceedings will reflect some of the great achievements of the Conference.
